7.1.2

1. Alternate sources of Energy and Energy Conservation measures

St. Wilfred's PG College is committed to promoting sustainable energy practices and reducing its carbon footprint. Here are some of the facilities and initiatives the college has implemented:

- 1. Solar Power: St. Wilfred's PG College has installed solar panels on the rooftops of its buildings to generate renewable energy. These panels produce a significant amount of electricity, which helps to reduce the college's dependence on grid power. Additionally, excess energy generated by the panels is fed back to the grid, making the college a net exporter of renewable energy.
- 2. Energy Audits: St. Wilfred's PG College conducts regular energy audits to identify areas where energy consumption can be reduced. The college uses the data from these audits to implement energy conservation measures and optimize energy usage.
- 3. Green Audits: St. Wilfred's PG College conducts regular green audits to identify areas of improvement and suggest measures to reduce environmental impact and enhance sustainability.

Overall, St. Wilfred's PG College has taken a holistic approach to promote sustainable energy practices, implementing a range of facilities and initiatives that address different aspects of energy use and conservation. These efforts demonstrate the college's commitment to create a more sustainable future for its students and the broader community.

Management of The Various Types of Degradable and Non- Degradable
Waste

2. Management of The Various Types of Degradable and Non- Degradable Waste

St. Wilfred's PG College is a well-known institution located in Jaipur, Rajasthan that has taken a significant initiative towards waste management. The college has implemented various strategies to manage the different types of degradable and non-degradable waste generated on its campus. This has been done with the aim of reducing the environmental impact of the waste and promoting sustainable practices among students, faculty, and staff.

To manage the degradable waste generated on campus, the college has set up compost pits that are used to decompose organic waste such as food scraps and garden waste. The compost produced is used as fertilizer for the campus gardens and green spaces. This initiative has not only reduced the amount of waste sent to landfills but also helped in maintaining the greenery of the campus.

To manage the non-degradable waste, the college has implemented a system of segregation at the source, where students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to segregate waste into categories such as plastics, paper, metal, and e-waste. The college has set up separate bins for each category of waste, which are collected and sent for recycling. The college also conducts regular awareness campaigns to educate students and staff about the importance of waste segregation and the impact of non-degradable waste on the environment.

The college has also initiated the use of eco-friendly alternatives, such as cloth bags and jute bags, to reduce the use of single-use plastics on campus. The college has partnered with local NGOs and waste management companies to ensure the proper disposal of e-waste and hazardous waste generated on campus.

The St. Wilfred's PG College has not only implemented these waste management strategies but also created a culture of sustainability among its students and staff. The college has also established an Eco Club, which is responsible for implementing and monitoring waste management initiatives on campus. This club conducts regular clean-up drives and tree plantation activities to promote environmental sustainability.

In conclusion, our initiative towards waste management is commendable. The college has implemented various strategies to manage both degradable and non-degradable waste, which has helped in reducing the environmental impact of waste and promoting sustainable practices among students, faculty, and staff. This initiative can serve as a model for other institutions to follow and promote environmental sustainability.
